

The following is my personal true-life account.

I got to know Master Ricky Chua somewhere in 1996/1997.

In Year 2000 when I was furthering my studies in Australia, I began to take an interest in Geomancy and Life Analysis. However, it was difficult. There weren't ample resources on Geomancy and Life Analysis printed in English to quench my thirst for research and seeking the knowledge. After spending time and money into reading books, I did not see any good results using Trial and Error methods in my studio apartment that I was staying at that time.

In Year Dec 2001 during my school holidays, I came back to Singapore and my very close friend asked if whom he can seek for Geomancy advises as he was renovating his unit at that time. I recommended Master Ricky Chua to him as I had know him for years, and judging from his character as a personal friend, I knew he should be the correct person whom we can trust.

According to my friend's feedback at that time, Master Ricky Chua was very accurate. He did some Life Analysis on my friend and his mum, and he was accurate about their past etc and even able to tell what health problem my friend's younger brother was having just merely looking at the brother's room and facing. With more convincing facts, the family decided to heed his advice of repainting and changing some renovation settings even though the house's renovation work was near completion.

Out of curiosity, I decided to try his Life Analysis service myself. He was very accurate about my past, but I was stubborn to accept what he told me about I walking into 5 years of ill luck starting Year 2002 which was 2 months away at that time, and skeptical about his predictions of my future. I was a devoted Buddhist then, believing that its Karma and only taking note of what he said very lightly initially. He warned me that I would be injured after Year 2002 Chinese New Year and the 5 years bad luck will start from then. He even claimed I would have muscle skeletal problems that didn't exist at that time, relationship problems, and worst, Career and Financial problems during these 5 bad years, which was ahead of me.

When I went back to Australia, I actually felt disturbed about what he had said because he was accurate about my past and also as a friend, I knew he wouldn't pull my leg. I started to confide to a few friends and I was scolded for being superstitious. I started to control myself by refraining from speeding and being extra careful with electricity at home as I'm staying alone by myself.

That dreadful day finally came; I injured my spine in a friend's house during gathering and I was conveyed to hospital. I had a very bad slipped disc on my Lumber 4 and Lumber 5. I felt as if I was paralyzed when lying on the bed, and started to recall what Master Chua had already warned me beforehand. My mind became blank and seriously, I told myself, "No way this is gona happen to me!"

Due to the bad injury and unable to walk, I had no choice but to quit my studies from Uni without completing my final 1.5years. I felt all my efforts had gone down the drain. I was despair.

When I came back in Year 2002 April, 1 month after my injury, I went to Master Chua's office with my walking stick and waist support, he was shocked to see me in that pathetic state. I told him what happened and he started to check on his computer and his books, and dated back the exact date that I got injured, and infact, he even told me what was the timing when I got the injury. The only thing I requested him to do for me at that time was he to predict what will happen to me every month for the next 5 years based on his calculations.

Honestly, these reports were 85-100% accurate. It was scary. So scary I even challenged my friends to consult him, if its not accurate, I will pay for their consultation and so far none had ever got a single cent from me. Those that did not hit me into bad shape probably were from the help of Thai amulets. Many of my friends started to visit him for consultations, some choose to believe, some choose to ignore, and some choose not to accept it. I spent most of the time accompanying my friends and listened about their life. I started to observe them, and true, Master Chua was right about them even for those who had choose to ignore his advices or had forgotten what he had advised. As he predicted, I broke off with my ex-girlfriend, I dropped out of distant learning attempting to continue my Degree in Singapore.

I finally understand the true and ugly facts of human's nature. When a person is in luck and everything in their life is smooth sailing and doesn't need help, they ignore or totally don't believe. Only when they are in trouble, or had lost everything, then they will look for Master Chua again and asked for help. I had seen it with my own eyes many countless times.

Master Chua always explained to me in Mandarin, "Zhi Ming Zhao Ming" meaning if you know your life analysis well, you learn to take control of it. Advancing only in the Favorable times, and retreating during the down period. He was right. Last few years of being stubborn had got me nowhere in my career, choosing career paths that doesn't suit my 8-characters or knowing bad things coming my way, I choose to swim with the bad flow and ended up worst off than before. I realized the true meaning of the word "Luck" and what is it all about.

It was nothing about Religion. According to him, it's Ancient Chinese "science". We can't play God.  $A \times B = AB$  and it won't be C. It's a set of calculations, understanding of the equations and experiences he had gained which makes it so accurate. Being a Science student myself who major in OH&S, I began to think what in this world that Science had not been able to solve and explain, some can actually be done away with this ancient science. For e.g., one of my friend "L" was warned of a particular month his dad may have serious health problem and may be life endangering. My friend actually overlooked it, as he was busy preparing his wedding and his dad passed away in that exact month out of a sudden as what Master Chua predicted. Can a Doctor do that?

I remembered in Year 2002, even several times of therapy at Mount Alvernia Hospital couldn't ease the pain of my lower back, I was so demoralized that I stopped my treatment. The problem persisted and in 2003, when I decided to let Master Chua see my house's FengShui, it really did change something. Following his instructions of shifting my bed's position, adding in items to make a "Kua" in my bedroom, amazingly, my lower back problem started to subside and in about 3 weeks time, the pain was gone and I could walk normally again without the nerve problem that always causes me to fall down or waking up in the middle of the night due to trembling. I also changed the colour of my room to my flavourable colour and soon my overall health got better. Previously, I was using my unlucky color that had been advised by a so-called "famous" geomancer whom my auntie helped to engage years back when we 1st moved in. I began to understand why my Dad hate Geomancers, it was all due to these UNQUALIFIED PERSONS who gave wrong advices and through advertising people like us think that they were great. What Master Chua did was totally different and really after following his instructions, I can see the effects on my family members life and myself, especially our health. He taught me to make use of my fish tank and "Pi Xiu" to place at wealth locations which had never been utilized before in the living room. By following that, my Dad strike lottery on the same numbers within 8 days and won quite a substantial amount of money. It had never happened before since the day my family moved into this house in May 1995. Due to the bad Fengshui in my house, Master Chua had advised us to move house but it was impossible due to the fact that my Dad believes no religion, and doesn't believes in FengShui. Since the day we had moved in till now, I'd had seen my dad's career going downhill year after year, health getting poorer and poorer, not to mention mine. His reasons was Economic crisis, 9-11's incident, his age catching up..... etc I knew it was not. Every 2-3 months, there will always be something that made us spent money. For e.g., air-con compressor spoils or leaks water easily even changing new ones, fridge spoils when the life-span was not even 3 years old, wall cracks for no apparent reasons, room doors cracking. Etc. July 2003, I had a terrible car accident. I crashed onto a big tree when taking a corner. The car was near total lost and no one will believe that I walked out of such a wreck unhurt without a single scratch. Miraculously, I'm the "lucky" one. I believed I was saved partly because of the Thai Buddha amulets that I wore on my neck had protected me, but also Master Chua's help. He predicted this accident to me in Year 2002 and advised me to use Taoist methods to protect myself. In Oct 2002, I joined the ceremony and kept my Chinese 8 characters in the Talisman and half of it was burnt during the ritual, offering it to the Gods in return seeking guidance and protection. I believed this was the major factor that helped me.

Some friends think I'm too superstitious about it. I am not. I'm just simply believing it. If I choose to ignore, I am running away from facts and when one day it happened as predicted, I will ended up still asking Master Chua for help as I should had listened and do preventive measures long ago to reduce the impact of these "series of unfortunate events".

I am more sober than anyone else as I'm the one going through the hard time and I needed help. What works and what don't, u named it, I probably had already tried it before. I will not indulge in something that doesn't work after trying for so many years and now I learnt to accept facts.

- 1) Religion is not only about believing and having faith, but also about self-cultivation. Don't take 5 apples and 5 oranges and expect to exchange for good luck and a fortune, it don't work that way.
- 2) You want Metta, you give Metta 1st
- 3) If you know your destiny and life well, correct the flow that flavours yourself and don't go against what you shouldn't do and make it more miserable.

I've got a good friend "J" who had a terrible car accident 3 years back. He was down on his luck just like me. He was not in the wrong, but the evidence present at scene was unflavourable to him and opposite party was hurt and his car was total lost. However, the Insurance Company did not settle the claims immediately and caused my friend into financial difficulty because he needed a car to work and had already bought a new car. Through Master Chua's advice of setting up some simple adjustment in his residence, he managed to defer the case and during his flavourable months, he won this "Impossible to win" case when the opposite party finally admitted her fault. This case took more than a year and my friend finally won.

Last few years of being down on my luck and being jobless for 1.5 years, I had visited Mediums, Monks from Thailand etc. Solutions weren't there, and honestly, only words of encouragement given or very general advice which honestly speaking, I had already know. I don't need that. I needed solutions. Not everyday indulging in my problems hearing it times after times and making me demoralized. I needed Remedies. Master Chua had been a great advisor and I had solved major problems during my last few years of bad luck. He gave me remedies whenever possible though I know it was my luck playing with me. Seriously, my friends and I were glad to have known him.

Thank You Master Chua!
